

Stephanie Phillips
Class of 2004

Committee Member

After feeling somewhat lost at university, Steph ended up completing four degrees (two Masters, a Bachelors and a Diploma), and took on an environmental graduate position with a mining company in a small town in far north Queensland. After a while Steph decided mining life wasn't for her and came home to Melbourne, where she joined the Flight Centre Travel Group.

Steph is currently managing the where2travel office in Carnegie, and loves all things "travel".

Steph wanted to give something back to the school that educated her for 14 years and provided her with so many fond memories. She is looking forward to working with like-minded women, networking and giving back to Lauriston - the school, she says, that has shaped her to be the person she is today.